CUSHIONSTONE

The modern look of stone and ceramic floors has proven to be a popular and enduring choice amongst warmer climates like Australia. In the past, homemakers have experienced difficulties with repairs and removal of their stone and ceramic floors. Cushionstone, as per its name, delivers all the beauty of natural stone and ceramic, along with all the benefits of vinyl flooring.

The range was developed to bring the raw elegance of stone into your home and yet enjoy the comfort underfoot of Cushionstone's resilient layers. Combined with a fibreglass core, heavy duty wear layer and PUR surface protection, you can have peace of mind in your floor's ability to withstand the rigors of our fast paced lifestyles.

Avorio Limestone

The inspiration for this tile was drawn from the light beige limestone quarried in Croatia. This stone is characterised by its warm beauty and hardy quality, commonly used for exterior and interior walls, floors, countertops and monuments.

With Cushionstone you can experience the luxury of Avorio Limestone in your home at a fraction of the cost.

Bluestone Concrete

Venetian Terrazzo

The humble beginnings of Terrazzo go back more than 500 years, to Italy. While marble was the material of choice at the time, Venetian construction workers began mixing scraps from upscale jobs with clay to create inexpensive flooring for their own homes and patios. Terrazzo was also influenced by Roman mosaic designs like seen in the image below from the Herculaneum in Rome.

With Cushionstone you can introduce Italian flair into your home interior.

O Peperino Concrete

Basat

Basalt is one of the most common stones on the earth's surface and is found in many locations around the world, both on land and under the sea. Used in construction from cobblestones to facades, it can be found in interiors as countertops, feature walls, fireplaces and floors. Shown below are the basalt columns found on Reynisfjara Beach in Iceland.

With Cushionstone you can bring the raw beauty of Basalt into your home.
